The AAMRO MRO Center: The Medical Review Officer's Website

For more than 15 years AAMRO certification has been recognized as an objective standard of competency and expertise for Medical Review Officers. To date, more than 5,500 physicians have been certified by AAMRO as Medical Review Officers.

As a leader in MRO development, AAMRO has innovated many of the practices and educational programs that shape the MRO profession. This year, AAMRO introduces another important innovation: The online AAMRO MRO Center.

The AAMRO MRO Center is an Internet portal with a searchable archive of the eMROAlert journal and government updates and related news on drug testing, toxicology and substance abuse. Online Recertification: Skip the Travel. Maximize Your Time.

AAMRO and MROCC certified physicians can recertify online at the MRO Center in 2008 using AAMRO's learning management and document verification system from Noverant, Inc. MRO Center members who recertify online will have online transcripts hosted through Noverant. These transcripts may follow members for the length of their practice, regardless of employment changes.

Recertification Good for Six Years

Recertification has been required by AAMRO every five years to remain in good standing. Beginning January 2008, AAMRO certification will be valid for six years.

The recertification process assures that MROs are current in their knowledge and performance of the essential duties of MROs. It is designed to inform and assess the MRO's knowledge of rule changes, current practices and procedures and technical issues. The exam is both a self-evaluation and an MRO diagnostic tool.

This is an open-book exam. Applicable study materials are noted on the application and may be ordered through AAMRO.

Recertification carries a CME Credit. It is approved for 16 prescribed credit hours by the American Academy of Family Physicians.

For further information and to obtain an application form, visit aamro.com or call AAMRO at (800) 489-1839 or (919) 489-5407.

Searchable online MRO Registry

Physicians currently certified or recertified by AAMRO are listed as 'In Good Standing' in the AAMRO Registry of Certified Medical Review Officers. Upon successful completion of the recertification examination, those previously certified by MROCC will be added to the registry with the same designation.
